

Crunch Munch Dinosaur Lunch! by Paul Bright and Michael Terry

This fun prehistoric tale is a great story about sibling rivalry and love.

Quick questions to share with your group

- Look at the cover – what do you think the book will be about?
- How would you describe Ty?
- Is Ty a nasty dinosaur?
- How does Ty show that he loves his little sister Teri?
- What sort of place do the dinosaurs live in?

Enter a prehistoric world

Explore the world of dinosaurs with your group by introducing them to the several different types of dinosaur. You can show them pictures and share simple snippets of information. Ask them each to choose a type of dinosaur and to draw them. These can then be added to a dinosaur wall display and accompanied by key dinosaur facts!

Families are great!

Ask the children to tell each other about their own families. They can even bring in a photograph to show the others. They should talk about why their family is special.

Creating a group story

What would happen if a dinosaur was found on the school grounds? Encourage the children to each give an idea as to what would happen and as the group leader help them to write a whole group story from these ideas. This can then be printed out and shared with parents, giving the children something that they can feel proud of.
